The diagram consists of a large rectangle defined by a dashed blue border. In the center of this rectangle, there is a block of text in a light gray font. Four gray arrows point from the text towards the center of each side of the dashed blue border: one pointing up to the top border, one pointing down to the bottom border, one pointing left to the left border, and one pointing right to the right border. This visualizes the constraint that important elements must remain within the defined boundaries.
